TORONTO vs. MCGILL

AT THE ARENA,
TO-NIGHT, AT 8.15 P.M.

Box Seats, $1.00. Reserved Seats, 75c. Now on sale at 325
Sherbrooke Street West.

The official attitude of the Amateur Athletic Union in reference to the proposal that amateur and professional be permitted to compete in track and field competition under special sanction, is explained by Alfred J. Lill, president of the union, as follows:

"The success of the Amateur Athletic Union and its steady growth for the past twenty-five years, can be attributed, for the most part, to the strict adherence to the policy of segregating the amateur from the professional athlete."

"The idea could only originate in the minds of those who seek something for nothing, and in connection with this matter it is evident that the amateur athlete has never had anything, and can never have anything, gained by competing with a professional. The aims and purposes of each are at distinct variance with each other."

Be there to-night. Bring her along. If she won't, or can't come, don't stay away to nurse your wrath, but "Come on along" and forget it in cheering for Old McGill.

RED AND WHITE OUT TO PLAY BRILLIANT HOCKEY AGAINST VARSITY

Team Is 100 Per Cent Better Than One Which Lost in Toronto Last Month — Stonewall Defence and Forwards Much Improved in Team Work

HOPES THAT MCGILL WIN OPENING GAME IN SECOND ROUND

Hughes, Rankin and Mann Backbone of Last Year's Team, Still on Hand — Parsons Expected to Figure High in the Scoring—Varsity Bringing Up Much Stronger Team Than Last Year

The second round of the Intercollegiate season opens here to-night, when Varsity meets McGill at the Arena. Both teams have greatly improved since they came together last month, and far the fastest game of the year will be played at the Arena to-day.

The Varsity septette arrived in town this morning, with high hopes of taking the big end of the score. If they win here, they are confident of gaining the victory at Kingston, and tying for the championship.

McGill has the big advantage of a home game, with the accompanying knowledge of how best to use the boards. Varsity has not yet played an intercollegiate fixture out of town, although they were fairly successful in the Christmas trip across the border.

The Red and White have spent a hard week of practising, after a little rest following the Harvard game, and the result of their hard work could be seen in each succeeding practice.

The climax was reached in the easy victory over Victorias, on Wednesday. Speed, team work and good defence work have all wonderfully improved, and Varsity will run up against a bunch of much better stick handlers than those she won from at Toronto.

Hard ice is greatly in the favour of McGill. They have been practising steadily on hard ice, and expect to outskate the visitors.

McGill will be out in full force this evening, with the possible exception of Hooper, who was injured in the Victoria game. The backbone of the defence will be the same as that which went through last season, Mann, Hughes and Rankin. They have developed a strong and reliable team work, which should carry the Red and White through a brilliant game. Mann can be depended on to stop many difficult hot ones that come his way. His work led principally to the winning of the Harvard game, and he also held down the score for the Varsity game.

In the forward line is shown McGill's greatest improvement. Parsons is ever reliable, and uses his head perhaps more than most of the other players when in the middle of a hard game. He has the speed, and the stick handling ability, which, with the assistance of the other players, in good team work should make the game a sure winner for the Red and White.

MCGILL TEAM.

The following players are requested to turn up at the Arena at 7.30 p.m.

Mann, Montgomery, Hughes,
Rankin, Kendall, Ryley, Masson,
Parsons, Davidson, Wickson De
Muth, Hooper.

Masson and Ryley have come well to the front since their entrance into the game in the middle of the season. All they needed was condition. Ryley in the game with Victorias, showed up well. Masson in the match at Boston, did well, as well as in the two games played this week.

With hard ice, optimism, and good team work, McGill stands the best chance to win she has ever had in any game played, or to be played this season. Whatever the outcome, a splendid game is sure to be witnessed. The Varsity team will be by no means a weak one. As usual, the Blue and White are there with the goods. Laird, in goals, was one of the "hides" of last season, and according to the reports of the matches this year, he is maintaining his reputation. The other two defence men, Hanley and Knight, are quite up to the average defence. Knight has always been known as a heady player, and the McGill forwards will find in him a hard man to elude.

The forward line is a rapid-scoring machine, as was shown in the former McGill game. However, one of their greatest faults is their lack of brain-work when behind. This latter fact was clearly exhibited last week, when they were defeated by Queens. However, Jupp, at centre ice, will require a good deal of watching, but if Davidson plays his usual steady game, Jupp will not get away and score as often as he did in the first match. Aird and Sinclair, the two wing men, will be well taken care of by Ryley and Masson.

Line-up:—

Mann	Goal.
Hughes	Point.
Rankin	Cover Point.
Parsons	Rover.
Davidson	Centre.
Masson	Left Wing.
Ryley	Right Wing.

SENIOR PLAY NEXT FRIDAY

Students' Orchestra to Render
Several Good Musical Numbers

MAY GO ON ROAD

Tickets to be Placed on Sale This Afternoon

Tickets for the Senior Play will be on sale this afternoon at the Union, and also by the various members of the cast and committee. Formal rehearsals are being held almost daily, and the play is gradually rounding into shape.

There was a persistent rumor abroad yesterday that after the "Manoeuvres of June" is produced here on February 27, it is to be taken on the road. There was some discussion as to the probability of a performance being given at Macdonald College, but no definite information was to be had, and there is probably nothing in it. The actors themselves had heard nothing of the proposed trip, but all seemed to think it would be a good idea to give a second performance.

The musical numbers for the evening have not as yet been chosen, but Mr. Arthur Graffety, the manager of the McGill Orchestra, states that the full orchestra will be on hand and that they will give some very satisfactory renditions. Those who have never heard the McGill Undergraduates' Orchestra perform should certainly take this opportunity of doing so.

Contrary to reports circulated by downtown papers, there is no likelihood of a general outbreak of scarlet fever among the students of Varsity. Several cases were discovered among the men in the University and Knox College residences, but they were immediately dealt with by the authorities.

A freshman in the South Residence was the first to develop symptoms of the disease, about two weeks after he returned from his Christmas vacation. He was immediately removed to the Isolation Hospital. Subsequently another case was discovered. Several men, fearing they might catch the disease, left for home and did not return until all possibility of the contagion has passed. The rooms along the west corridor of the top floor of the South Residence were fumigated by the health authorities, and the men examined.

Three cases developed at Knox College during last week, and the patients were immediately removed to the Isolation. All precautions against its spread are also being taken here.

Enquiry at the Hospital elicited the information that all five student patients were doing exceptionally well. It is likely that the two taken first will be released before the end of the month. The Varsity was informed that besides the five from residences, the Hospital was looking after a few other cases of students whose homes are in the city, but who had also contracted the disease shortly after the term commenced.

As scarlet fever is epidemic, in some parts of the province at the present time, it is likely that it was brought back to College by students returning from their vacations.

MEETING OF ECON. CLUB

A JOYFUL NOISE.

There was a sound of revelry last night at Strathcona Hall. It seems that after the Orchestra practice, Yves Lamontagne and Gregson were prevailed upon to produce an entertainment for thirty or forty of those in residence at the Hall. Bill Grant, who knows the why and the how of a mouth-organ, also performed.

Viola, cello and mouth-organ, all three, with the accompaniment of well-nigh half a hundred lusty voices, helped to pass away four or more hours. When last heard of they were still going.

It was stated, however, that there were prospects of a feed at an early hour this morning in the rooms usually inhabited by Smith and Kennedy.

MEETING OF ECON. CLUB

Question of Single Tax Discussed
—Open Meeting to be Held

The attendance at the Political Economy club was smaller than last night, owing to the fact that the rehearsal for the senior play took place at the same time. Nevertheless, the meeting was very successful. The papers read were of a high order.

The matter of having an open meeting of the society came up for discussion. A committee was appointed to make the necessary arrangements. The meeting will take place in two weeks' time.

Max Bernfeld read a paper on the "Theory of the Single Tax as expounded by Henry George." He showed that Henry George favored the idea of taxing land rents rather than land values since such a course would prevent speculation.

"So-called Single Taxation in Western Cities" was the subject of a paper read by Allan Oliver. He pointed out with the aid of statistics that this was not a complete single tax, and was imposed with a view to the prevention of land speculation.

Archie Stalker, M.A., the guest of the club last evening, compared the so-called single tax idea and the plan advocated by Henry George, and pointed out that there was no connection between the two. Archie Stalker was the first person to take an M.A. degree in the department of economics at McGill.

A free discussion took place after the addresses. All present took part. Professors Leacock and Hemmion were present.

NEW APPOINTMENTS

McGill Decided to Honor Distinguished Men With Degrees

Important matters were considered at the last meeting of the Corporation of the University. It was decided to unite with the Board of Governors in assuring Lady Strathcona and her family of the deep sense of loss felt by them and of the sympathy of the members with them in their bereavement.

Principal Peterson reported that Sir William Osler had represented the University at Lord Strathcona's funeral and had acted as one of the pall bearers.

The following appointments were made: Dr. Andrew Macphail, member of the Library Committee, and also a member of the Committee on Moral and Discipline, along with the Hon. Mr. Justice Archibald, Dr. A. C. Geddes a member of the Matriculation Board.

It was also resolved to grant the ad eundem degree of D.D.S. to A. W. Thornton, D.D.S. (Toronto), L.D.S., Professor of Crown and Bridge Work and Chairman of the Dental Executive, McGill University; Fred G. Henry, D.D.S. (Bishop's), L.D.S., Professor of Dental Materia Medica and Therapeutics; and James B. Morrison, D.D.S. (Bishop's), Professor of Orthodontia. The degree of D.D.S. in course, will be given to Peter Brown, L.D.S., formerly Professor of Dental Anatomy, and Dental Histology in the University, and to George S. Cameron, L.D.S. (Professor of Prosthetic Dentistry and Metallurgy).

The following gifts were reported: From Dr. Jas. Douglas, a gift to provide for six years for the salary of a student in pathology; from J. K. L. Ross, $450 for a scholarship in the Conservatorium of Music; from Messrs. B. and R. J. Tooke, Percival Molson, A. F. Ross and J. H. Birks, $500, to provide an additional lecturer in the department of oriental languages; and from the late Miss Crump, a bequest of the house 62 McTavish street.

Professor J. G. Adams, of McGill University, it was stated, has been awarded the Fothergill Medal of the Society of London for his work on "Pathology in its Application to Practical Medicine and Surgery." The Fothergill Medal gold medal was first awarded in 1757, and is given new every third year. The latest recipients have been Sir Victor Horsley, Sir Patrick Manson, Sir Frederic Treves, Sir Almroth Wright, and Professor F. W. Mott, F.R.S.

The Medical Society of London is the premier medical society of the world, and the above is the only gold medal which it awards.

AN ARTIST'S APOLOGY.

The New York Times is responsible for the following:

Dear Teacher:—My mother says I have to apologize for drenching your picture on the bored as if you was an oiled made with curls and a long whisker on your chin which you could not help or me neither.

It was a mean thing to do and I am sorry I did it but I could not help it because you stood there looking so nacherl with the curls and the whisker and all and Jenny Ames dared me to do it at recess.

I do not blame you for wippen me because it looked so much like you you had a purple rite to be mad. If I was you I would be mad too.

My mother says nobody is so sennative about her looks as a lady teacher, especially if she is a little oiled but this was not to go in the letter.

If you only understood what is inside of boys' heads make them be mischevous you would be sorry for them for it is not exactly therefault.

I know you feel worse about it than I do because my wippen does not hurt now but a pickchure goes on forever.

Teachers have a hard enuf time goodness knows without been shode how they look for a whoal school to laff at.

Sometime if you do not care I will drench you on the bored looked sweet and yung and put your name under so everybody will know who it is and so no more for the present from your troofrend and skoller.

SQUAD OF CANDIDATES FOR HARVARD'S CREW.

Followers of Harvard rowing are to-day much pleased over the fact that no less than 75 candidates reported to Coach J. C. Wray and Capt. Quentin Reynolds at the first winter practice held Monday afternoon. Indoor work on the machines and in the tank at the Newell boathouse will be held every day until the men can get out on the river which is expected to be in about six weeks.

Although considerable voluntary work has been done by some of the candidates during the winter, Monday's was the first compulsory work since the fall training season closed.

Three of the men who sat in the victorious Harvard varsity eight at New London last June are among the candidates. They were Captain Reynolds, Chanler and Harwood. Gardner and Murray of the varsity four were also present. Trumbull, who also rowed in the first boat against Yale at New London last June is on probation, and Saltonstall, who held a seat in the varsity four, is playing hockey, but will report for training at the conclusion of the Princeton series.

Following the usual first-day instruction Coach Wray selected three eights and put the men to work on the machines for a quarter of an hour. The choices were made on the basis of the men's ability shown last year either on the varsity or freshmen crews with the results of the fall season.

Three oarsmen from last year's freshman crew won places in the first boat on the selection. They were Schall, No. 7, and Harry and William Middendorf, the two crack oarsmen in the 1913 four last spring at positions No. 5 and 6. Chanler stroked the first eight and the others in the boat were Harwood, No. 4; Captain Reynolds, No. 3; Gardner, No. 2; Murray, bow.

W. T. Gardner, because of the Varsity four last year, is looked upon as a strong addition to the larger shell. In all probability he will be kept in the eight if he manages to keep down in weight.

The second boat was almost the same as the 1913 freshman eight. Six of the eight were in the 1913 crew, and the other two were second-class men. Lund was at stroke and L. Curtis at No. 5. The others were all sophomores and were seated in the following order, Soucy, 7; Parsons, 6; Morgan, 4; Lyman, 3; Talcott, 2; Herriek, bow.

Chichester stroked the freshman eight, led the third boat. The make-up of the rest of the shell was Meyer, 7; Reynolds, 6; Hibbard, 6; Buck, 4; Carter, 3; Boyer, 2; Storrow, bow.

Coach Wray will have to pick a coxswain to fill the position made vacant by Captain Able's graduation last year. The three candidates for the position are Enwright, Gallagher and Kreger, all sophomores.

The Jan. 25th edition of The Student (University of Edinburgh) is well up to its usual good standard. There are several very good short stories and poems. The Letter to the Editor, entitled "The Lure of Jacqueline" is very good indeed. "A Tragedy" the "New O'clock Class" gives us a clear presentation of the heart of the "fusser." Another, "In Memoriam" has been added to the world's already huge list. The thought is really a beautiful one.

IN MEMORIAM.

A Rose fell from a basket of flowers, And a wind snatched it away Over the trees and over the hills Over the cloudiest pinnacles. Far from this misty world of ours Deep to the bosom of deathless bowers, Where the peals may redden in summer showers Of a June-bright, noonless day. "The Student,"—Ford.

The Trinity College School Record contains a review of current events at the school, together with a very pleasing little story, "The Time the Snipe and the Girl." A very quiet little note on Belgian spelling is to be found among the "Bright Bits," as follows:—

On a hotel signboard at Uccle, Belgium, motor cars are advertised for hire under the designation: "Shel-paar-deel-schoneer-spoor-weg-petro-dryt-ten-gen." The Belgian Post Office discourages the habit of ordering these things by telegram.

But a luscious in Athens is called a pollyptantochetarmoxe. Most people would sooner walk than pronounce it.

The Glasgow University Magazine contains a splendid lot of reading. "An Evening with Nero" and "McKinnon's Mirrin" are the two pieces of fiction in the issue. A few little poetical gems and notes concerning the various societies are to be found. The cover design of the number to hand is unique and cleverly executed.

The North American Student contains a splendid editorial on the "Sin of Not Hating." When we can look on any one of the sins of our time without a definite feeling of revulsion and a desire and determination to combat it with all our might, then is an evil day for us. Among the numerous excellent contributions is an article on Chinese missions and the Student Volunteer convention.

The November number of the Argosy, the Mount Allison University magazine, is a collection of splendid stories, jokes, and commentaries. Mr. John H. Beagley contributes an article on Engineers. The subject is very capably dealt with. "The Temple of Silence," by Mr. Dolan, is a very interesting tale, and a well written one. Under the heading Sackville, there are several very good jokes, a few of which we give below:

Munro "15—'I'm having a whale of a time."

Visitor—"How's that?"

Munro "15—'I'm marking Miss Jonah's paper.'"

Bryce "15 (practising at Parrisborough)—'Next Sunday your pastor will preach all day.'"

In short, all the current numbers are well up to their usual standard of excellence.

THE OTHER COLLEGES

Open warfare has been declared between the sophomores and freshmen of the University of Utah, in the shape of a shaving contest. Several days ago the freshmen issued an edict that there would be a head shaving bee in honor of the sophomores. The next day two freshmen appeared with no hair, and since then any lower-classman, venturing on the campus alone has been in grave danger of being caught and shaved.

Minnesota students became so absorbed in the tango and hesitation waltz that they were ignorant of the fact that firemen were working to subdue a blaze in the basement of the campus armory, which threatened the building with destruction. The fire gained considerable headway before it was discovered.

Meanwhile 200 couples dancing on the main floor waltzed innocently on. The orchestra leader had been informed of the fire and was instructed to keep up the "rag" music. The damage was slight.

An organization of university women in the interests of woman suffrage is the latest sensation at the University of Iowa, and it is understood that several prominent university co-eds are behind the movement to perfect the organization.

According to the plan as carried out at other universities over the United States—for such an organization is found in practically every institution in the country—the women are organized after the fashion of the suffrage societies. The larger cities were considered as a part of the national organization of clubs which further the "cause."

While pursuing academic courses, students at Harvard earned $58,773 last year. The secretary for Student Employment reports that during the year 1,920 positions were secured for students.

The largest amount earned during the term was $1,800 by a supervisor. Employment reports that during the year 1,920 positions were secured for students.

The stroke which will be used by the Yale crew this season will not be the simple Bob Cook stroke, but some variation of it.

Candidates for crew honors at Stanford University this spring met for the first practice of the season Wednesday afternoon.

Cornell has 3,500 men available for Varsity teams, while Michigan comes next with 3,462, Columbia with 3,075 and Pennsylvania with 2,400, are the only other institutions having more than 2,000 men available.

Agitation for a gymnasium capable of accommodating a great number of men is being carried on at Harvard. Their present gym, has a capacity of 200 men a day, which, compared with the size of the equipment at other universities, is considered inadequate.

The track committee of Pennsylvania University has set standard performances for the different events, and all making the required performance will be awarded medals of proficiency. The move is an effort to stimulate track interest.

Varsity football men at Princeton have been forbidden to write, or have their names signed, to sporting articles in metropolitan newspapers. The practice was deemed to border too closely on the professional.

Uncle Josh says: "A college education never hurt any man, but A. B. has ruined lots of them."—Indiana Student.

NIGHT

by P. E. C. '13, after a lonely night on the open prairie.

Infinite stretches of plain-land,
Under the moon's cold light,
Into the depths of the stillness,
Peering the gems of night.

Somewhere off in the dimness,
Rises the wolf's sad cry;
Cuts like a knife through the silence,
Shakes like a long-drawn sigh.

Type of eternal loneliness,
Hate and contempt of men,
Howling despair to the moonlight:
Drawn by the night from his den.

Strange, deep message is brought me,
Writ in a scarce-known tongue,
Deep as time's outer darkness,
Strange as the prophets sung.

The blind soul gropes for its meaning,
Vainly and hungrily tries,
Over the bonds of its weakness,
Into infinite knowledge to rise.
P. E. C. '13.

IS BACON SHAKESPEARE

The writer argues in favour of Shakespeare from various standpoints.

For some years arguments have been in progress to decide whether or not Shakespeare was the original author of the famous plays signed with his name. A great many people believe that Lord Bacon was the true writer of the plays.

In comparing the two men we find their characters and modes of writing entirely different. Bacon was a deep-thinking man, stiff and formal in his manner of expression. As a boy he loved to learn. He gained more pleasure in reading the serious works of ancient philosophers than in playing ball with his friends.

Shakespeare was a merrier lad, though studious. Unfortunately he could not attend school after he was fourteen. Some books say he never went to school, but that is denied. There is proof that Shakespeare did go to grammar school in Stratford, where he obtained a fair knowledge of Latin. It is reasonable to believe that he was a bright boy and an apt scholar. Therefore, during the short time he did go to school he would gather a good understanding of the different subjects, says Lyde, in the Toronto Globe. Probably he spent every spare minute in studying and reading.

One writer said that an author of such wonderful works of art as the Shakespeare plays would leave some record of his life behind him, even if it were only a newspaper clipping. But scarcely any record of Shakespeare's character remains. But it wasn't the custom those days to spread information about private persons through the press. Very few papers were published during Shakespeare's life, and those that were were not filled with more important material than facts about character. It was not until six years after Shakespeare's death that a weekly paper was published. Shakespeare was called illiterate because he spelled his name in two manners, and wrote it badly. Of course different people spelled his name differently. In fact to-day there are over fourteen ways of spelling his name. Shakespeare himself spelled his name in these two ways: Shakspeare and Shakespear. At that time intelligent people often spelled their names in two fashions. Bacon once in a letter of attorney spelled his name "Bakon." Neither was Shakespeare the only noted man of mark who wrote poorly. Even to-day many men of mark write very badly.

To be the creator of such a perfect piece of literature as the Shakespeare plays are the author must have had a perfect knowledge of law and a most intimate acquaintance with all intricacies of his art. Shakespeare had a knowledge of theatrical matters. How could Shakespeare, who was the son of a poor, hard-working, common man, and who had little education, write the works he is said to have written?

But Shakespeare had a splendid knowledge of law, for it is said that he spent two years in an attorney's office. He also gained information by his own experiences. He bought land and was a landlord. He was a lawyer, and was well acquainted with legal proceedings concerning the theatre. He was a plaintiff in actions at law for the recovery of debts. He bought New France and made money out of his land ventures. He took part in the litigation respecting his mother's title to an estate. So Shakespeare made good use of his chances to study law.

Shakespeare was a man of letters. He gathered all the knowledge possible in staging and theatrical matters. These plays show that he understood these matters. While there he also studied French and Italian and revised old plays.

A Baconian author says that Shakespeare was but a petty tradesman, who loaned small sums of money. The only thing he wrote was the weekly accounts. When young he kept bad company, drank and sowed his wild oats well. He also says that New Place was given to Shakespeare, and that Bacon gave him £1,000 for the use of his name and all blame or trouble that might arise from using his name appear on the plays. This is quite reasonable, for Queen Elizabeth was determined the punish the author of "Richard the Second," for she believed that he had written about her and hidden the fact under the above title. But all this has been denied and a different story told.

Mark Twain, in his book, "Is Shakespeare Dead?" says that Shakespeare is "far baby." He affirms that you can find nothing worth the trouble of stowing away in your memory of Shakespeare's life. Shakespeare, like his father, was but a common-place man. A small trader thought nothing of being a dramatist. It was only before Shakespeare was cold in his grave.

Ben Jonson, who knew Shakespeare, says that he loved the man Shakespeare, who was honest, open and free-hearted; who had an excellent fancy, brave notions, gentle expressions, and a brain overflowing with wit. In fact, it was sometimes necessary to stop him, for he fairly bubbled over with wit. He rarely crossed out a line, and wrote rapidly.

How could Bacon, whose style of writing was so different from the manner in which the plays were written, write them? If only the same familiarity with both Bacon's and Shakespeare's mode of writing compared five lines of each of the authors' work it would be doubtful if he could find five lines of Bacon's anything like five lines of Shakespeare's, or vice versa.

Campbell says that, in general, Bacon's letters were written in a stiff, formal style. When he tried to write light, airy stuff he made a botch of it. He showed more plety than poetry. His prose was sometimes practical, but his poetry was prosaic.

The plays show a good understanding of rural life and customs of the lower class of people. Bacon would be less likely than Shakespeare to understand these conditions. All Bacon knew about theatrical matters he learned when quite young, and was not very important. He never mentioned anyone anything about the plays, nor did he say anything about them in his will.

Washington Irving says: "When Baconians can say that Ben Jonson was either a fool or a knave, or that the whole world of players and playwrights at that time was in a conspiracy to palm off on the ages the most astounding cheat in history, they will be worthy of serious attention."

Each side of the problem is almost as plausible as the other. But should it be proved that Bacon or anyone else did write the plays, there will still remain people loyal to Shakespeare. It is quite probable that whatever happens, the great works will always be known as Shakespeare's Plays.

LONDON "Y" WON.
The Woodstock College basketball team Wednesday night journeyed to London and met the "Y" boys there in an O. B. A. fixture, losing by the score of 48 to 17. The students put up a great game but were unable to hold the speedy Londoners, who led safely at all points of the game. The half-time score was 23 to 6. The line-up:
London—Ferguson, r.f., 11; David, l.f., 13; Morris, c., 13; Henderson, l.d., 8; Eastwood, r.d., 4.
Woodstock—McDonald, r.f., 6; Mill, l.f., 2; Sutherland, c., 4; Dwyer, l.d., 3; McLaurie, r.d., 2.

The world's record breaking relay teams of Harvard and Boston Athletic Association will meet for supremacy at the schoolboy meet to be conducted by the Boston Athletic Association.
The Vancouver M. C. A. basketball team, champions of the northwest, may play a series of home and home games with the University of Washington quintette.
The Princeton soccer team will in all probability enter the Inter-collegiate Soccer League this spring.

WRESTLERS LEFT FOR ITHACA TO MEET CORNELL ON SATURDAY

Six Mat Artists Make Trip—Are Expected to Show Up Well—Cornell Men in Condition

The wrestling team to represent McGill at Cornell left last night for Ithaca. Last year, as many may recall, the team missed the train. As a result they were obliged to travel in a caboose. This was, of course, very inconvenient, and the men were somewhat knocked up when they arrived. Even while they were thus slightly hampered when they got on the mat, they made a very good showing; in fact, a good deal better than any other of the colleges which competed from Pennsylvania State.
This year's team is even better than last year's, as all the men have had the benefit of the able coaching of Mr. Smith, who has certainly done his share to round the men into shape. Banfield, a freshman in Arts, who is now the college champion in the 115 lb. class, is very good, as well as fast at getting the holds, and knows how to break them when entangled.
Andette, in the 125 lb. class, is a star man. Last year he captured the Intercollegiate title in handy fashion, and looks good for this year as well. He is very fast and snappy. Ramsay, the 155 lb. competitor, is perhaps not as good as the lighter class men, but he also has been practising hard to gain his falls in fine style. McPhail is

SWIMMERS WILL PRACTICE TODAY

Special Call For All Swimmers to Turn Out

McGILL WEAK

Inter-Faculty Meet Less Than 10 Days Away

With the Inter-Faculty Swimming meet less than 10 days away, the McGill swimmers are turning out in rather small numbers to the practices. During the past week, McGill suffered two bad blows, when it was announced that Geo. Hodgson, world's champion swimmer, and "Red" McLean, who starred with the M. A. A. last year, would be unable to compete in the coming Intercollegiate swimming meet.
These two vacancies now leave room for a number of other men, who have good ability. It is a well known fact now, that unless some of the swimmers in the University hustle up and turn out to the practices, McGill will be unable to retain the Intercollegiate Swimming Championship.
This afternoon, at 4.30, in the Y. M. C. A. tank, a special practice will be held, at which all men will be given an opportunity of showing their skill. Any man with swimming ability is requested to turn out, as there are competent instructors in charge, who will develop any promising material.
Entries for the Inter-faculty meet must be left with the janitors of the buildings, not later than Thursday, Feb. 19th. There is no charge for entries, so a large entry list is expected.
The entries are:—
Long Plunge.
Plain and Fancy Diving.
50 yards.
100 yards.
220 yards.
50 yards, back stroke.
Relay race, consisting of four men from each faculty.
As this is the only means of judging what material will be available for the Intercollegiate meet, it is hoped that each faculty will enter a full team.

ANOTHER D-FEAT FOR THE COLLEGIATE

Woodstock Y.M.C.A. Doubled Score on Students in Fast Match
In the fastest city league game yet seen at Canterbury street rink, the speedy "Y" team won from the Collegiate Wednesday night in the third of the city league games for the Martin trophy. The final score was 2-1, the Y. M. C. A. making perfect time in the first half, and though the students notched one in the latter period, yet they could not even things up when the final bell rang.
It was a fast exhibition, both teams playing excellent hockey from start to finish, the "Y" boys having slightly the best of the game. Close, hard checking and some excellent combination stuff featured both periods. Strenuous back-checking was the order of the day in the last half, with the "Y" boys to the fore, though the Red and White came strong towards the end, and showed lots of the come-back stuff. However, they could not even matters up in time.
But goal tenders played brilliant games, stopping all kinds of hot ones and their excellent work was a big factor in keeping down the score. For the Y.M.C.A. Rippon at centre, Parker, playing rover, showed all kinds of clever stick handling, while Douglas, on the wing, has all kinds of speed and is a good shot. Pratt was also good and the three back division boys, Thompson, Capt. Forden and King in goal, put up a great defence game.
Now, the above rule allows the forward pass so long as the person to whom it is passed is, or was even, or behind the passer when he shot the puck across the ice. In such a case a forward pass would be recovered, and the person getting it offside, when he takes a forward pass, provided he was ahead of the passer when the latter passed the puck.
During the last Intercollegiate hockey game played here, there was much discussion about this rule. It is, therefore, hoped that to-night, all the students, as well as the referees, will see their way clear to enforce it.

INTERCOLLEGIATE RULE EXPLAINED

Off-side Rule Will Be Enforced To-night—Spoils Game at Times

Because of the defeat of Varsity last week, by Queens, there has been much comment on the off-side rule. In the Intercollegiate a forward pass is allowed, although many students are unaware of this. According to the Intercollegiate Handbook, an off-side occurs "when a player hits the puck, any one of the same side, who at such moment of hitting is nearer the opponents' goal line than the puck, and the puck touches the puck himself, or in any way prevent any other player from doing so, until the puck has been played. A player shall always be on his own side of the puck, except a player on the defensive side, shall not be offside when he takes a pass from or plays the puck, as it bounds off his goalkeeper within a space of three feet from the goal, and extending to the side of the rink."
Now, the above rule allows the forward pass so long as the person to whom it is passed is, or was even, or behind the passer when he shot the puck across the ice. In such a case a forward pass would be recovered, and the person getting it offside, when he takes a forward pass, provided he was ahead of the passer when the latter passed the puck.
During the last Intercollegiate hockey game played here, there was much discussion about this rule. It is, therefore, hoped that to-night, all the students, as well as the referees, will see their way clear to enforce it.

QUEEN'S PLAYERS NOT TOO CONFIDENT

Players Realize That McGill Will Force Them to Limit in Order to Win

Although they defeated Varsity last week, the Queen's hockey team are none too confident of the championship. They are well aware that when they meet McGill, they will meet an altogether different team from that which was beaten in Montreal.
Early in the week, the Queen's players lined up for the first time since the game with Varsity, all the players being on hand. Dr. J. J. Hartly, the coach, was out on the ice, with the players, and made them step quickly throughout the entire workout. It had been at first feared that some of the players would not turn out because of injuries, but Wattle Smith and Dobson have recovered sufficiently to return to the practices.
On Friday, February 20, the Queen's septet will line up against McGill in the return match of the senior Intercollegiate series. A win for Queen's will give them the championship, providing McGill beat Varsity in Montreal, which is very likely.
One of the curiosities of the Queen's team is the fact that three members of one family are on it. Two are defence players, while the other is seen at rover.
WINTER FOOTBALL AT PENN.
Coach Brooke, of the University of Pennsylvania football team, has 20 candidates out for winter practice. Four prizes have been offered for this work, one for the man showing the most improvement, another for the best punter, a third for the most capable drop kicker, and one for the strongest all-round player.

McGILL MEET HIGHLANDERS

Red and White Mitt Artists to Box Soldiers

SEVEN BOUTS

McGill Mitt Artists Expected to Show Form Reversal

While the wrestlers are trying conclusions at Cornell, the McGill boxers will be engaging in mit contests with the Highlanders at their Army on Fleury street. Determined to make up for their disappointing showing against the M. A. A., the Red and White mitt artists have been spending a good deal of time at the practices lately. Sergeant Blake has taught all the boxers a number of the latest tricks, and is quite confident of his men beating the soldiers.
Students should turn out in large numbers to this meet, as the admission is free, and the McGill representatives will also have a good chance of seeing what our boxers can do.
Competitors are as follows:
McGill.
Lawson 115 lbs. Dr. Ditton
Forbes 125 lbs. Pte. Rowe
Atkinson 135 lbs. Pte. Baily
Harold 135 lbs. Pte. Racy
Montgomery 145 lbs. Pte. Johnson
Cleary 158 lbs. Pte. Marshall
Ross Heavy Pte. Small

McGILL II TO PLAY R.M.C.

In Sudden Death Match at Ottawa Next Week

STRONG TEAM

Most of the Players Have Already Had Experience

McGill hockey fans lost a good chance of watching two games for the one price of admission, when it was announced yesterday that McGill II. would not meet R. M. C. I. The cause of this is the fact that a number of players are being held at Kingston this week and the hockey players are none too loath to leave them. However, arrangements are already being made for the playing of the game in Ottawa.
This sudden death game will probably be played some time during the coming week. The winner will play home and home games with Varsity II., who have already won the honours of their section.
The Red and White seconds are probably as good a second team as McGill has ever had. Most of the players have benefited by experience in other amateur leagues, and can be counted on to give a good account of themselves.
In goals, Montgomery, who figured in the contest against Queen's, will probably turn out, while Gilmore and Kendall will round out a strong defence. Gilmore is a naturally strong stick handler, and if it was not for McGill's senior excellent defence, would be playing with them.
On the forward line, McGill II. need have little worry. Wickson, Brophy, McCall, Hervey, Fraser and one or two other men are all capable of playing good hockey.
A crowd of supporters are expected to make the trip with the team.

WISCONSIN U. IS TO HAVE WINTER SPORTS

Bright Hopes Are Entertained as To the Results of this Movement

If the plans of the department of physical education of the University of Wisconsin are successful this institution will become the greatest winter sports college west of the Allegheny Mountains. Wisconsin will be the "Dartmouth of the West."
The organization during the past week of the University Ski Club and the University Hockey Club, the former of which proposes to promote all forms of outdoor sports, and the latter, the action of the board of regents of the university in voting to provide a ski hill for the sliders are evident proofs of the attitude of the institution toward making the university a popular place for outdoor recreation at all seasons.
The lower campus is being flooded to create several hockey fields in order to allow the 800 first-year students, who are required to take two hours of gymnastic work weekly for credit, to spend that time in pursuit of hockey. As soon as there is enough snowfall the university toboggan slide, 1,400 feet, will be maintained free of charge for the use of students, will be put into operation for the season.
The annual winter carnival, a two-day programme of outdoor sports, will be held about February 15. It will consist of a toboggan tournament, a ski-jumping tourney, a cross-country ski race, a hockey game, with some out-of-town team, and a big dance. Even on the toboggan slide will include singles and doubles for men and women students, and slides by toboggans with four, six, eight and more passengers, both for speed and distance.
The Ways and Means Committee of the South Carolina legislature has reported favorably on the plan to incorporate the College for Women, of Columbia, S.C., as a co-ordinate branch of the University of South Carolina. The bill provides that, in addition to the present endowment of $250,000, a subscription of $100,000 be raised before the measure goes into effect.

CLASS HOCKEY AT KINGSTON

Sophomores Beaten by Seniors in Western Medical College Class Game

The Sophomores, last year's champions in the Inter-year hockey league, in connection with the Western Medical College, went down to defeat before a strong aggregation from the senior year at the Simcoe rink Wednesday night, to the tune of 7 to 3.
At half-time the score was a tie, 3 to 3, after a strenuous fight on the ice. The first half, and Martin received a large gash above the right eye, which caused him to retire for a few minutes, but upon his return to the fray he went at things with a vim hitherto not exhibited, and at this point it was that he succeeded in piling up the goals.
The line-up:
Sophomores Seniors.
Jones Goal Dauph
S. Murray left defence Martin
McKay right defence Whelan
Ross left wing Freeman
McMurry right wing Siddle
T. Murray centre Leatherdale
McDuffin rover Aiken
Referee—Schumacker.

AT HOME AND ABROAD

Athletes will be permitted to compete in but one branch of sport among western conference universities, if the proposal of George Huff, of Illinois, is accepted. Huff believes that it is better to have poorer teams and more individual men competing, rather than have a few teams that are merely built up.
The sporting editor of the Queen's Journal, writing about the Queen's Varsity game in Toronto, on Saturday afternoon, says Dobson was easily by far the best man on the ice. His playing was fully up to his standard of four years ago. He bored in well and should have scored more than three goals. Next to Dobson, Wally Smith was the best man for Queens. Our goal tender (Ray Smith), had an "on day." "He is a marvel."
Some of the Toronto sporting writers credit Dobson with only two goals, whereas he got three.
The Varsity hockeyists expect to clean up McGill in Montreal to-night. They are not out of the running by any means and threaten to own even the Presbyterians on their own ice, according to the "Varsity."
Mount Allison defeated King's College by a score of 6 to 5 in the Intercollegiate hockey game played here Wednesday night. The teams were very evenly matched, and the game was an exciting one throughout.
Victoria and Vancouver McGill Colleges played a spectacular and keenly exciting hockey match at the Arena at Vancouver, January 31, the score being a tie, 4-4. Newitt and Strath starred for Victoria. The goals were scored by Newitt, 3; and Clark, 1.

YALE'S OLD BOATHOUSE TORN DOWN.
Yale's famous old boathouse, in which victorious Yale crews returned from New London after twenty out of 34 Yale-Harvard races, is no more. The last old clapboard and the final old pile on which it had stood for 35 years were ripped out during the last week and carried away. The Yale undergraduates, who, when they left for the Christmas recess saw the old Yale landmark standing in place as usual, when they returned, however, found only an empty shore line. Notwithstanding that for a dozen years back Yale oarsmen and others interested in rowing have condemned the old structure as unfit for modern purposes, it is a curious fact that not since the Adee boathouse was opened for use three years ago has Yale won a race on the Thames.
With daily adherence to the following menu, Silas Herrick, a freshman at the Colorado University, hailing from Dubuque, Colo., believes he has satisfactorily solved the high cost of living:
Skimmed milk, buttermilk, stale bread at three cents a loaf, peanut butter, raisins, oatmeal and apples.
He was spurred to the test by reading of Harvard student who lived on $1 a week. Herrick has gained weight and declares he will continue the diet until he leaves the university.
In a certain university in Germany there are special saloons for the students, to be at their disposal at any time. The Kaiser, having become a temperance man, has tried to abolish the saloons. He has lately made a rule that no student should take more than five drinks a day. They're getting strict in Germany.

--- BE THERE! ---

To-night, Varsity and McGill clash in their last home fixture. The game will be a good one; the sort that is worth patronising. The McGill team is away ahead of what it has been so far this season.

We hope, in view of the vastly improved hockey situation that the team will be splendidly supported to-night.

Spectators often fail to realize how much their disposition towards the participants affects the game. The psychological influence of the crowd upon their own representatives has often won a game.

Your presence at that game to-night will mean that you are anxious that McGill should win. It will also mean that you are aware of your responsibility to your Alma Mater. Let her interests be your interests. Make it "McGill All the Time."

EDITORIAL NOTE

In spite of some care we have taken to keep them out, several errors may have been noticed in yesterday's Daily. We were following the example of a Montreal paper which last month introduced the report of a London meeting with the following sentence:—"Sir William Ramsay raised the question whether the unfit should be left to die at the annual dinner of the Institute of Sanitary Engineers to-night."

McGill Twenty-Four Months Ago

FROM THE MCGILL DAILY, TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 13, 1912.

Andrew Fraser, the son of Sir Andrew, was banqueted last night at the McGill Y. M. C. A. His message to McGill Y. M. C. A. men was of special interest, because of the fact that he hails from Ceylon, for which Murray Brooks, a well known McGill man, held last year.

The Toronto Varsity senior hockey team trimmed the far-famed Wanderers by a score of 8 to 1, in an exhibition game. It so happens, however, that these are not Montreal's Wanderers, but New York's.

The Science Undergrad. Society held an interesting meeting addressed by Mr. A. L. Mudge, Chief Electrical Engineer of Smith, Kerry and Chase, on the "British-Canadian Power Development," illustrated with lantern slides.

The Students' Council has authorized the Song Book Committee to hold a competition for new songs, for the new song book. This competition is open to all undergraduates of McGill.

The first round of games are now being played in the Union Billiard Tournament, in which thirty-eight competitors are taking part. The interest in this annual contest is greatly increased this season owing to the fact that the Daily will present a trophy for the highest run made by any player during the tournament.

REFORD CUP CONTEST TO TAKE PLACE FEBRUARY 18

Announcement Is Made by the Literary and Debating Society Executive For Contest for Trophy Donated by Mrs. R. W. Reford

The annual Reford Cup contest for semi-impromptu debating will be held in the McGill Union on the evening of February 18th.

The Literary and Debating Society, through the generosity of Mrs. R. W. Reford, of this city, is enabled to offer as a prize one of the largest and most magnificent trophies that McGill has ever seen. This contest should prove especially inviting owing to the magnificent cup for the winner, and requires only a few hours' preparation. Competent judges have been procured, so that every participant can feel absolutely assured of a fair and impartial decision. The executive regrets that it is at present unable to announce particulars but will do so as soon as possible.

All contestants are urgently requested to send in their names immediately to the secretary, C. J. Oughtred, 196 Milton street. This is absolutely essential, and must be strictly adhered to, for the executive is unable to allow anyone to enter the contest who has not fulfilled this requirement. The secretary will be obliged if all names be submitted in writing before Monday evening next.

Riley Hern says: "The new Spring Overcoatings include some semi-ulster styles; that is, a shorter coat than the Canadian ulster, but made of the same class of chinchillas in downy, light, fleecy weave. THE ORCHESTRA WILL PLAY IN SACRED CONCERT SOON

They Will Provide Music at Senior Play—Trip to Macdonald on March 7th

Last night the Students' Orchestra held their usual practice. The practice was the usual one, but the playing was above the ordinary. Intent on putting their best efforts into the necessary preparations for the next concert, the Orchestra will give in the near future, each man took his part and the result was an excellent rehearsal.

There were some features of the playing that are perhaps deserving of criticism. At last, the first violins have wakened up to the fact that they must play as one man in order to lead an effective lead to the efforts of the rest of the orchestra. The weak point, if it could be called such, was the work of the wind instruments. They have perhaps been carried away by over-confidence. The position of distinction to which they have attained in the past may perhaps have been responsible for that laziness which they had a tendency to evince last night.

On the whole, however, the orchestra works as a unit. Each man realizes his position and the responsibility that is his and in consequence a successful practice is the result.

The Students' Orchestra is responsible for the musical programme on the occasion of the Senior Play. The selections which they will render have not yet been fully determined, but they will include the "Fire-fly."

On Saturday, March 7th, the trip to Macdonald College, which has now become an annual event, will take place. This is always an important event for the Orchestra, since the concerts which have been given at St. Anne's in the past have always been well received by the students in residence there.

A Sacred Concert will be given on Sunday, March 15th. Judging from the popular reception tendered the last Sunday concert, there will doubtless be a large number of people present at this next.

R.V.C. Rooter's Songs

Tune: "Maryland."
From east to west her praise we sing,
R.V.C., dear R.V.C.
And to her shrine our tribute bring,
R.V.C., dear R.V.C.
Throughout the land her fame extol
And add new names unto her roll:
Her honors are our highest goal,
R.V.C., dear R.V.C.
Since first thy portals opened wide,
R.V.C., dear R.V.C.
Of "Old McGill" thou art the pride,
R.V.C., dear R.V.C.
Hall, Alma Mater, in thy praise
With loyal hearts our songs we raise,
Thy fame shall live through endless days,
R.V.C., dear R.V.C.
C. L. J., '12.

Tune: "Robin Adair."
Dear College, hear our song
We sing to thee,
Echo our voices strong,
Fair R.V.C.
(Chorus.)
Royal Victoria,
Royal Victoria,
College Canadian,
We love thee.
Some sing a land where blows
Soft southern wind,
But in clear glistening snows
Thou art enshrined.
When in far distant years
Thy again we see,
Then with a thousand cheers
We'll sing to thee.
E. H., '13.

Tune: "Clementine."
Up on Sherbrooke, head of Union,
Every passer-by may see
A famous college, crammed with knowledge,
And known to all as R.V.C.
(Chorus.)
O the Seniors, O the Juniors, O the Sophomores, R.V.C.,
And the verdant little Freshies of McGill and R.V.C.
We are learned in every subject,
German verbs and Latin keys,
We get knowledge in this College
For our Registration fees.
O the Seniors, etc.
Economics, Anglo-Saxon,
Supplemental History,
To get knowledge, come to College,
Take a room at R.V.C.
O the Seniors, etc.
Basketball and sports and skating,
We can play at any game,
We got knowledge in this College,
And we'll add it to her fame.
O the Seniors, etc.
E. C. L., '12.

Tune: "The Maple Leaf Forever."
Beneath Mount Royal's kindly brow
Noble Lord Strathcona came
And reared our stately hall, to share
In McGill's far-reaching fame.
To him and thee, dear home we love
We raise our song together;
Oh, may she be a shining light
Of old McGill forever.
The R.V.C., our College home,
The R.V.C., forever,
Long live McGill, and Heaven bless
The R.V.C. forever.
We love each stone in thy dear walls;
Sad the day we part from thee,
But sacred thoughts will guard thy name
With pride and loyalty;
And those high aims thou dost inspire,
We swear to yield them never,
For strength and glory, work and will
Thy R.V.C. forever.
The R.V.C., etc.
R. A. W., '15.

Tune: "Victoria Rifle's March."
Play up, pass the ball along and score!
Play the game as you have played before!
Cheer the girls who wear the Red and White!
Watch them win the game for R. V. C.

Tune: "Killarney."
(Adapted by K. W. L.)
College, dear, let thy praises ring,
To thee shall our affection cling,
We to our Alma Mater sing
Ever Royal Victoria.
May we daily strive to feel
With all our mind the value real
Of lofty aim and high ideal,
Ever Royal Victoria.
May we who to thy portals came,
Lured by glory of thy fame,
Ne'er stain the honor of thy name,
Ever Royal Victoria.
In the hidden after days,
When we've gone our several ways,
May loyal hearts still sing thy praise,
Ever Royal Victoria.

WHEN JANE FIRST CAME TO COLLEGE
Tune: "Darby."
When Jane came first to College
She was full of vim and knowledge;
She'd led her class at Prep. school,
And she joyfully broke the House Rules
The way they do in Prep. schools
But ere her Freshie year was o'er
She had been given slams galore.
When Jane became a Sophomore
She seemed to work as never before.
She dated on Empires and Scipio B.
And sat up nights till two and three,
While she cautiously broke the House Rules
With an eye on the Freshies from Prep. schools.
And when the College year was up,
Tis sad to tell, but she had a supp.
When her Junior year had dawned
On Jane
She suddenly found she was far from plain.
She had admirers without end
And daily attended the Castle Blend.
But she frequently kept the House Rules.
As a hint to Freshies from Prep. schools.
And her knowledge of the Dinosaur
Made Banky mark her 84.
(Slowly.)
When Jane became a Senior
She donned a staid demeanor;
She ran committees great and small,
Debated, skated and played basketball.
While she sternly upheld the House Rules.
And snubbed the ways of Prep. schools.
And the only one not awed by her
Was said to be Paul T. Lafleur.
(Quickly.)
When Jane came back as a Post-Grad.
She almost drove the College mad.
The worst of the Junior, Senior, Soph.
She had to be treated like a Prof.
While she utterly scorned the House Rules.
And says they were only for Prep. schools.
Till the Faculty gave her an M.A.
In order to get her out of the way.

THE SONG OF THE R.V.C.
We come from the East and we come from the West,
From the North and the South come we,
And proudly we claim the dear and honored name
Of the girls of the R.V.C.
(Chorus.)
So cheer, girls, cheer, for the Scarlet and the White.
The banner of nations yet to be,
And join hand in hand for the glory of our land
And the honor of R.V.C.
The sons of Old McGill with their strength and with their spirit,
Win honor over Queens and Varsity,
But we with brain and pen are the rivals of the men,
And we'll beat them in the R.V.C.
(Chorus.)
Tell it long and tell it loud, of our College we are proud,
And so of us proud may she be.
Let us up and play the game to be worthy of the name
As the girls of the R.V.C.
(Chorus.)
And when the years are sped, let others here instead
Ring the chorus full and free,
But though we are far away, forever we will pray
God's blessing on the R.V.C.
(Chorus.)

MOON HAS CHANGED MONTREAL WEATHER

Good News: Warmer Weather To Be Here—Minimum Temperature Yesterday 25.5

The three main topics that are uppermost in the minds of McGill students these days are the weather, the smallpox scare, and hockey.

On inquiry from McGill Observatory it was gleaned that the weather conditions were as follows:

8 a.m., 23.6 below zero.
3 p.m., 20 below zero.
3:30 p.m., 13.8 below zero.
The minimum being 25.5 below zero. The weather is affecting young and old. As the Daily man was passing a group of co-eds yesterday noon the wind was blowing with unusual chilliness, and one remarked to her companion that the wind was as chilly as a stepmother's breath.

Science men have worse troubles even than the weather complaint. One meets one of these with a non-angely look covering his features and keeping at a safe distance from his fellows. It is easy to infer that he has recently seen the vaccination doctor and is suffering from the effects. If you wish to get your left eye injured it is a good thing to ask him if his arm hurts.

COLLEGE NOTES

At a mass meeting held recently, the senior class of Wisconsin decided to wear slit skirts for the remainder of the year.

The baseball squad have chosen a somewhat unusual mascot for the team. An ordinary groundhog is effectively employed to lead the squad to the scene of practice at Baylor.

A great movement has been instigated among the students of the Chicago University to renew their acquaintance with the church. The newspaper campaign to encourage the attendance in the 1,200 churches there resulted in a 100 per cent. increase.

The last word from the Nebraska Junior prom, indicated that all plans are set for a dance beautiful. This junior event is to occur Thursday. The number who may attend is limited by the committee in charge of the affair.

George Meader, a former student of Minnesota University, is now a very successful grand opera singer in Berlin. He has contracted with the Royal Grand Opera Company of Germany to appear ten months of each of the next four years.

The freshman class at Louisiana wore goggles and eyeglasses for the last week.

Five hundred farmers, accompanied by their wives, visited Missouri University recently. These were mostly the parents of students.

The sophomore class at Colorado has been found guilty of insubordination to the student commission. The latter organization has decreed that the class must apologize.

The students of Columbia are making a desperate effort to have football put back on the calendar of sports. The faculty ruled football out several years ago.

BLUNDERS AND BULLS

The John Bull, a British weekly, in its issue of August 15, publishes the following "howlers" from examination papers of pupils in the Government schools:

"England was once a foreign country."

"Thomas a Becket put on a camel's hair shirt and at once became dangerous."

"The Briton painted himself with wode and came out green."

"The potato feeds peasants, but goes to more important things like whisky."

"They ate their dinner sitting on tomb-stones consisting of a pork pie and ginger beer."

The same paper gives a number of newspaper "howlers" (blunders), among which are these:—

From the Daily Mail, referring to the Marathon Race: "Never before has such a finish been witnessed; it was a finish such as was witnessed at Athens."

The Dublin Evening Mail: "It appears the regimental mull who arrived on the Sidon yesterday is not the one who was shot at Salonika on Saturday."

The Inverness Times: "The Black Rod may be seen using a useless sword."

The Harrogate Star: "Owing to great pressure on our space a number of births and deaths have been postponed."

THE LATEST JESTS.
Bix—"Give me the man who makes light of his troubles." Dix—"I prefer the man who keeps them in the dark."
—Boston Transcript.

"Bliss" has a very orderly desk. "Yes, He is one of these men who won't leave a paper lying around. He promptly put it in a pigeon hole and loses it forever."
—Washington Star.

It was the beginning of their wedding trip—"Dear," she inquired anxiously, "in the excitement of leaving, did you say good-by to papa and mamma?" "No," he replied; "I said 'au revoir.'" —Puck.

"So you don't call on Miss Bute any more. Quarrelled?" "Well, I told her I preferred to have her kiss me before and not after she kissed her pet dog." "And what did she say?" "She said I evidently forgot that the dog might have his preference, too."
—Boston Transcript.

FOR A POSITION AS WIFE.

It was announced the other day that an application for a wife by a Canadian had been received by the chairman of the Nottingham Guardians. The publication of the fact has brought thirty letters from girls and young women from London, South Wales, and the North of England. Some simply ask the man's address. Others give full particulars of themselves, and enclose a stamped addressed envelope. "I am looking for a husband and would be glad to go to Canada," writes one. "I am twenty-three, and a poor working girl." She encloses references. A Birmingham girl asks for "photographs of the gentleman." A Southwell girl adds, "I have no previous experience, and am qualified to make a good home for the man if I liked him."

The students and the faculty are agitating the entire state for a new gymnasium.

Mr. Philip Werlein secured the 1914 appointment as Louisiana Rhodes Scholar.

The managements of the different publications of the University of Washington have stated that no student can vote for the officers of the papers, unless they pay their subscriptions.

MERCENARY.
"Don't take that job that's offered you, my girl. Take a good man's love, instead."
"What does the job pay?"
"Sixty dollars, I think."
"What does the good man make?"
"Forty dollars."
"I'll take the job."
—Baltimore American.
